home market."

After pointing to the nation's

enormous capacity for production

and consumption, and through high

wages, "the greatest distribution of

wealth that the world has ever seen,"

he asserted that "if we proceed under our present system, there would appear to be little reason to doubt

that we can continue to maintain

all of these high standards . . .

indefinitely and with our home market, advertising can increase our

foreign commerce."

LISTS ACHIEVEMENTS

As contributions of the Republican administration "to peace and

prosperity during the reconstruction

period," he listed curtailment of the national debt, decrease of Federal

expenditures, limitation of naval

defense appropriations, loans for rehabilitation work in Europe and

financing of South America.

The president of American

industry, which has constantly

brought about a reduction of costs,

the president asserted, "has come

very largely through mass production.

Mass production is only possible

where there is mass demand. Mass

demand has been created almost entirely through the development of advertising.

"For many days goods were expec-

ed to sell themselves. Modern business could neither have been created

nor can it be maintained on such a system . . . It is not enough that

goods are made; demand for them

must be created. It is on this foundation of enlarging production

through the demand created by advertising that much of the success of the modern industrial system rests.

EFFECTS OF HIGH WAGES

"In the general sense, under which these results can be obtained should be maintained. It is our high rate

of wages which bring about the

greatest distribution of wealth that exists in the world. It is the foundation

of all kinds of commodities which characterizes our country.

"If we proceed under our present

system, there would appear to be little reason to doubt that we can continue to maintain all of these high

standards in wages, in output, and in consumption. Industrial production

is based on home markets as a foundation, increasing our foreign commerce.

"But nothing would appear to be greater than that that all domestic

commodities are made in the main support of our home market.

"It is to be seen that advertising

is not an economic waste. It

ministers to the true development of the nation's economy.

Mr. Coolidge held honesty in business to be the only method of permanent success and declared "there

can be no permanent basis for advertising except a representation of the truth."

"If our commercial life," he continued, "is to be clean and whole-

some and permanent, in the last re-

sort, it will be because those who

are engaged in it are determined to make it so. The ultimate reform

THE MINI- MUM GOAL for SAV- INGS

HOW much money should a prudent man or woman accumulate and maintain in a Savings Account as a necessary reserve to be available in case of sudden or urgent need?

This is a question recently given wide discussion in an eastern city. The consensus of opinion was that the prudent cash reserve in a savings account should be not less than FOUR MONTHS' WAGES OR INCOME.

That's a mark to shoot at. The average man or woman cannot save that much in a month, or in a year, but you can START, and make that your goal.

FOUR MONTHS' PAY, safe in a bank, means a great relief from worry and care.

EX-KLAN CHIEF FILES APPEAL

D. C. Stephenson Attacks Life Sentence

Conviction Illegal, His Petition Declares

Lack of Jurisdiction of Court Asserted

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Oct. 27. (AP)—D. C. Stephenson, former Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, today appealed to the State Supreme Court from his conviction last November 14 of second-degree murder in connection with the death of Miss Mary McLaughlin, 17, of Indianapolis. Stephenson was found guilty by a jury in the Hamilton County Circuit Court at Noblesville and sentenced to state prison for life.

The conviction was attacked on the grounds that the Hamilton Circuit Court lacked jurisdiction, because the indictment was returned on hearsay evidence, because the court erred in failing to instruct the jury to disregard the first count of the indictment, which charged manslaughter, and in denying a motion to set aside submission of evidence and discharge the jury because of conduct of the trial judge. The reasons were given in the assignment of errors.

Stephenson was charged with having abducted Miss Oberholzer from Indianapolis and strapping her on a train en route to Hammond. She took poison the following day and died several weeks later. The prosecution held that injuries inflicted on the girl by Stephenson and the withholding of medical treatment caused her death.

DEMOCRATS APPEAR BEFORE GRAND JURY

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27. (Exclusive) Indiana Democratic leaders had their first court appearance when they appeared before the Marion county grand jury investigating charges of wholesale political corruption throughout the State. It is understood that they were called about reported overstatement to the public of their expenses to have information damaging to several Indiana public officials.

Indiana Democratic leaders have repeatedly refused to take any part in the current political scrap, saying that it is a Republican affair and therefore Republicans should set their house in order. It is known, however, that they have been sympathetic to the efforts of the Indiana Republicans.

Thomas Taggart was the first Democratic leader questioned today. It was the first time he had ever appeared before a grand jury.

He was followed by Earl Peters, Democratic State chairman, and Charles Greshouse, Indiana member of the Democratic National Committee.

Mississippi Senator William Jennings Bryan, veteran Indianapolis Republican, who at times has been at odds with the Klan, was called to testify. He said he had been followed by Earl Peters, Democratic State chairman, and Charles Greshouse, Indiana member of the Democratic National Committee.

REED COMMITTEE TO QUESTION KLANSMEN

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27. (AP)—Turning to the Klan again, the Senate Committee on Education and Labor, in its second investigation of the political situation again, the Senate Committee will begin the examination here tomorrow of more than half a dozen members and former members of the Ku Klux Klan in the State.

Primarily Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, committee chairman, will seek to establish whether Senator Rosen, Republican, who is seeking re-election to the Senate, was in touch with Klan officials at Washington last January at which Walter P. Brossert, an Indianapolis lawyer, resigned as Grand Dragon of the Klan. Senator Reed said he had been told that end of the year he recalled Brossert and James V. Bolen, of Anderson, former secretary of the Indiana Klan, both of whom were quoted by Bradford in his speech at the Klan meeting at the national capital.

In addition, subpoenas have been served on Mayor Duvall of Indianapolis, and on Robert E. Bolen, attorney, who, the committee has been told, was present at the conference. Bradford said Bolen made his statement about the Washington meeting at a conference in Indianapolis at which W. Lee O'Daniel, described as a Watson supporter, was made Grand Dragon to replace Brossert.

Hattie's new government radio station at Fort de France is reported to have been heard in Florida and Venezuela.

PROSECUTOR REGRETS LENITY WITH GIRL WHO ROBBED HIM

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. (Exclusive)—

Assistant State's Attorney Henry M.

Ayers stood before Judge Brothers

and agreed to a plea of the defense

for leniency in the case of Jennie

Pepiot and Daniel Brady on trial for burglary.

"I can understand the resentment

of the populace against burglars," he said. "My wife was robbed last January and my wife's fur coat and a valuable clock were taken. I know that I can understand the feelings of the burglar who took those things I should demand that they go to jail forever."

"But as prosecutor in this case I

can act more or less as a disinterested

lawyer," he said.

He must have me confused with some one else," he said.

PHOENIX, Oct. 27. (AP)—Louis B. Whitney, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, and Henry F. Astwood, United States Senator from Arizona, today directed telegrams to Senator James A. Reed, Missouri, welcoming a senatorial investigation of campaign funds in the State.

Whitney characterized as "pure fabrication" a statement made last night by Senator Ralph H. Cameron that a $100,000 "slush fund" had been turned into Arizona through a new Mexico bank by eastern copper interests in an effort to control the State.

in contributions, including $8000

from the Democratic National Sena-atorial Committee; $250 from J. D. Frazee, former Democratic Senator from California, and $100 from Joseph Tumulty, former secretary to President Wilson.

Senator Cameron, Republican, Ari-

of $1450 and contributions of $6000,

including $5000 from the Republican

National Senatorial Committee.

CAMPAIGN FUND CHARGES DENIED

Oregon Quiz Fizzles Out as Witnesses Testify

Asserted Principals Declare Stories All Canards

Rumor of "Oregonian" Deal Finds No Backing

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 27. (AP)—Charges of a $46,500 "slush fund" in behalf of the candidacy of Frederick Steiner, Republican nominee for United States Senator, got into the record of the hearing before Senator Charles L. McNary, Republican, Oregon, here today, and were denied by Steiner, who was the last witness of the day. Steiner said he knew nothing of any such contributions.

The hearing adjourned until tomorrow when O. M. Clark, chairman of the board of directors of the Portland Electric Power Company, and Franklin L. Griffith, president of the company, are expected to deny the charge that the company contributed $50,000 to the campaign of Steiner. Steiner branded the stories as "an outrageous falsehood from beginning to end."

W. S. U'Ren, Portland attorney, who was called to the stand to answer charges on file before McNary, testified that he did not believe any of the asserted payments had been made to the campaign of Steiner except for the personal gift of Mr. Piper. He expressed the view that the payments were made for campaign expenses.

Senator Robert N. Stanfield, independent candidate for United States Senator, who was defeated at the primary by Steiner, said he did not believe any of the money went to the Oregonian.

Senator McNary indicated that the investigation would be adjourned by noon tomorrow, so that he can go to Chicago to confer with his colleagues on the Senate Campaign Fund Committee.

Walter Hayes, former secretary to President Roosevelt and vice-president of the National Surety Company, who was named as the source of the $46,500, denied that any such contributions had been made to the Steiner fund by the Portland Electric Power Company, as was asked today by wire to come to Portland to attend the hearing.

James Stone of Spokane, who was mentioned as having told of the contributions, was also asked to come to the hearing. He will be heard tomorrow if he arrives.

PROOF OF LACKING

W. S. U'Ren called Steiner to the stand after both sides had presented all the witnesses available, and attempted to deliver into his charge that he had failed to account for all expenditures made by him before in the primary campaign. He got into the record a letter he had written to the Oregonian September 14, last, in which he said that the $46,500 had been contributed to the Steiner campaign fund by opposition interests, which he mentioned as those connected with the Portland Electric Power Company. Steiner denied the knowledge of any such contributions.

U'Ren asked Steiner concerning payments which were asserted to have been made to Charles A. German and Charles E. Hennock of Portland. Senator Stanfield, who was present, asked questions, which pointed toward a probe of the "yellow ticket," holding that the Senate committee aimed merely to obtain information which would guide it in passing upon the qualifications of Steiner.

He said that the "yellow ticket" had been investigated by grand juries; that indictments had been returned, that the trial had been adjourned, and it is his duty to go into the matter. He agreed, however, that he would see that the Senate would investigate this matter if it should be brought up by anyone challenging the right of a Senator-elect to take his seat.

HAYES IGNORANT OF STORIES ATTRIBUTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. (AP)—Walter Hayes, a former private secretary to President Roosevelt, tonight denied any knowledge of a $35,000 contribution from the Portland Electric Power Company to the Portland Oregonian for the newspaper's opposition to the candidacy of Senator S. H. Stanfield of Oregon.

He was quoted at today's session of the House of Representatives as having told of the amount of the fund contributed in the office of George Putnam, editor of the Salmon

Journal, New York, in 1924.

Hayes said, "I have a pleasant recollection of meeting Mr. Putnam, but I never had any such conversation with him. He must have me confused with some one else," he said.

McTIGUE IS AFTER HIS OLD TITLE

Mike to Visit Moguls to Prove That Delaney Needs Relieving

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (Exclusive)—Weighed down with a certified check for $2500, Michael Francis McTigue, former boss of the world's 175-pound pugilistic plane to visit the offices of the New York State Athletic Commission next Monday morning to demand a hearing before the nine moguls that Jack Delaney has automatically retired as light-heavyweight champion and he, Mike, is fit and ready to step into the vacant crown.

McTigue's contention is based in the main on the public statement accredited to Delaney that he now tips the beam at 180 pounds and that he has no chance to defend his title. The avowed purpose of seeking a match with Gene Tunney for the title, Mike further will assure the commission that he stands willing to fight. Tunney, however, is not entitled to wear the titular mantle.

RIGHTS OF SHIP SEIZURE ARGUED

Supreme Court Decision in Quadra Case in Sight

Rum Tax Question May be Disposed Of

Prosecutor Says Authority Outside of Treaty

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. (AP)—Developments in the Supreme Court today during oral argument in the Quadra case from California indicated the court might dispose of the question of the legality of the prosecution of the officers and crew of the British rum-runner without concerning the 1924 treaty with Great Britain under which the ship was seized. This treaty gave the United States the right to board British vessels within one hour's sailing distance of our coast.

Solicitor-General Mitchell in presenting the case for the government asserted that the right of the treaty for which counsel for George Foss and others convicted in the case contend is not necessary. Mitchell said the British vessel Quadra was being operated out of Vancouver by a Canadian company, but that the Consolidated Exporters' Corporation, as one of a fleet of vessels engaged in selling liquor of the California coast, and that there could be no doubt of the authority for prosecution by the Federal government or all those engaged in the enterprise.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

He held evidence disclosed a conspiracy and it was not necessary to look to the treaty for authority to prosecute such acts. Several manufacturers of the rum, he said, were located in San Francisco, maintaining contact with the vessels on the high seas and directing customers to them and this gave Federal courts jurisdiction to try the officers aboard them.

He told the court that while there has been much correspondence with the British as to the validity of the treaty, there has been no complaint filed against the prosecution of men found aboard British vessels brought into port under charges of violating American law against rum-runners. The only witness from Britain had shown, he said, was to seek an early trial.

ARGUMENT OF DEFENSE

Counsel for the petitioners argued that the case required a construction of the British treaty, holding that the court should not consider it to take into American courts only the question as to whether the vessel should be confiscated and gave no right to prosecute against the crew. Under questioning counsel for the

DEEPEST SPOT IN OCEAN FOUND

Japanese Navy Survey Vessel Located 9435 Meter Depth Off Izu

TOKIO, Oct. 27. (AP)—The Japanese navy survey ship Mandar returned to Yokosuka today after a six months' trip and reported it had discovered the deepest spot in the ocean to be off the Izu Peninsula between Izu and the Bonin Islands. The depth is 9435 meters.

The deepest spot previously found was off the Kurile Islands, where the depth is 8800 meters. It was found by the American warship Tuscarora.

Quadra contended the crew and the British government had leased and asserted the right to prosecute those aboard for conspiracy. He also asserted the Quadra was outside the jurisdiction of the United States because the crew failed to prove that small boats could make the trip to the mainland in one hour.

The Solicitor-General replied it was immaterial in view of the contention of the government that the vessel was located at the time of seizure. He insisted that had the men aboard been brought into the jurisdiction of the court by kidnapping that would not have affected the validity of the conviction.

The men disclosed, he asserted, that the vessel was within six miles of the Paracel Islands when seized and that the vessel's island belonged to the United States. It was not necessary to measure the distance to the Golden Gate.

OLIVE FRUIT WORTH

FORTUNE TO GROWERS

OLIVE, Oct. 27.—When the Olive Fruit Company's plant closes here Friday, the Olive district will have set a record in citrus shipments and will rank second in amount of fruit shipped from Orange county communities over the Santa Fe, it is said.

To date 800 cars have been shipped from the Olive plant and by Friday the total will be 1000. The orange crop this season approximates $1,200,000 in value according to estimates prepared by Parker. The crop appeared in the crop put out this year was reached in 1922, when 800 cars were shipped. Olive is second only to Placentia in number of cars shipped over the Santa Fe lines, is the belief of Mrs. Ellis McCloud, local station agent. Several carloads of oranges not accounted for were trucked to the harbor district for shipment east by boat, it is said.

INSECTS SEEN AS CHALLENGE TO SUPREMACY OF MANKIND

PARIS, Oct. 27. (Exclusive)—Man's supremacy on earth may be doomed to give way before the lowly insect.

This theory has been expounded in an academy report to the Institute of France, by Paul Marchal of the Academy of Sciences.

Marchal declared that at the present time there are 800,000 species of insects against which humanity must maintain a continuous battle.

These insects, many of them carriers of deadly disease, are capable of decimating unprepared, unwatchful mankind either by direct attack or indirectly, by contaminating food.

"Mosquitoes open the way for plague fever and carry yellow fever germs, while through tick-borne blood they spread in widespread the destructive disease of typhus," the scientist said.

Insects of other types are tirelessly engaged in destroying crops and practically all man's efforts and another to man's detriment, according to the report.

District Attorney's office in New York City, under the direction of the office of the investigation of the four-year mystery which resulted in the indictment of the widow and three of her men relatives for murder, who was present. Permission to exhume the body was granted last Friday by Supreme Court Justice Parker.

"Discrepancies were disclosed at the conference," Simpson said, "between the notes taken at the time of the 1922 autopsy and information in the hands of the investigators."

WILMINGTON PARK TRACT WINS FAVOR

Council Committee to Urge Acquisition of Banning Homestead

in Wilmington for park purposes will be recommended to the City Council to-day by the County Park and Playgrounds Committee, the committee decided yesterday.

The committee will recommend acquisition of a tract of a million acres in the Banning homestead for the purpose, Chairman Hughes said. The Board of Park Commissioners, Hughes said, concur in the action.

A movement has been under way

in Wilmington for a long time to acquire the fine old Banning homestead, but it came near being sidetracked some months ago when certain interests attempted to put over a fire sale system that did not include the Banning homestead.

In the controversy that followed

Edgar C. Conner, of Wilmington, Allen was openly accused of promoting the five-park plan in order to benefit himself to the detriment of the community, a charge that Allen would not admit.

Insects remaining property will cost

about $275,000, according to options

on file with the city. It includes approximately twenty acres.

SEEK AID FOR ROAD BUILDING

Supervisors of Three Counties Approve Highway

Make Request of State and Federal Departments

Route to Connect Valley With the Ocean

VENTURA, Oct. 27.—The three directors of Tri County Highway Board met in special session today at the Courthouse and took steps for the securing of State and Federal aid for the construction of the San Marcos highway. As a result of the meeting, Supervisor J. L. Wagy, of Kern county, was appointed to go before the Highway Commission at Sacramento on Friday to ask the commission for State aid so that construction of the road can be started as soon as possible. According to Supervisor T. G. Garber of the Ventura board, and chairman of the Tri County Highway Board, Mr. Wagy is to ask the State commission to grant the permission for county highway districts to enter into the construction. To back him up in the request for the appropriation, Mr. Wagy will carry with him a lengthy resolution adopted by the Tri County board, which is a resolution that the construction of the road from the time the initial move was made, nearly a year ago, to the time of the formation of the permanent Tri County Board, was not effected. The motion was made by the Supervisors of Ventura, Kern and Santa Barbara counties.

Following Mr. Wagy's request to the State commission, the board will make a request to the U. S. State Bureau of Public Roads and the United States Forest Service for Federal aid in construction of the new highway.

First Cotton Sets New Mark at Porterville

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 27.—Bringing the high price of 81½ cents, an advance of 1½ cents over last year, the first bale of cotton picked and ginned in Tulare county this year sold at auction in the business district of Porterville to a return of $284.80. E. J. Skinner, prominent grower of the El Mirador foothill district northeast of here, who captured honors for the first bale last year, again won the distinction this year. Last year the mark was the first bale of cotton produced in Tulare county.

This year's bale was on display for some time in the lobby of the Citizens' Building, now being in Los Angeles, and also occupied a prominent place in the Porterville booth at the recent Tulare county fair. It was purchased by Porter, a prominent cotton grower and ginned by the Delta Farm gin in Tulare county. Eugene U. Bialeck, prominent local attorney, acted as auctioneer.

Since the ginning of this bale early in August the local plant has processed about 1500 bales, the greater portion of which is being held in storage here.

SAYS GRAND JURY "PACKED"

Former Bank President Makes Sensational Charges During Taking of Deposition

PHENIX, Oct. 27.—Sensational charges that he believed the grand jury which indicted him for asserted irregularities in the management of the Valley Bank was "packed" and that criticism of State Banking Superintendent Johnson concerning alleged bad paper in the Valley Bank were made today by W. D. Mitchell, former president and one of the founders of the bank, during the taking of his deposition in the bank litigation here today.

Mitchell has been engaged for three days in giving a deposition in the suit of Mrs. Maude James Loller, and other minority stockholders who are seeking to have set aside the transfer of the Valley Bank to the Bank of Italy and the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank. The transfer was made in 1924, when the condition of the bank was held by State banking authorities to be sound.

On cross-examination, by W. M. Conley, one of the lawyers of the Pacific-Southwest bank, Mitchell said that the Valley Bank made "wonderful improvements" in the months immediately preceding the transfer of its assets, the rediscoupons reduced $600,000 in the nine branches, the rediscoupons reduced $250,000, losses reduced $700,000 and deposits increased between August and December, in all, $1,000,000. Deposits decreased $629,827 during the period when J. F. Pickett was manager of the bank a short time before the transfer, Mitchell testified.

A considerable part of today's hearing was completed at 8:30, the opening session of the day was made by Dr. W. W. Miller, president of the Agricultural and Horticultural Society, who spoke on "Good Trees the Orchard Foundation."

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the school made a field tour for the purpose of viewing the citrus and orange groves and fields of Tulare county. This tour was conducted by C. H. Booth, dean of the Junior College; J. W. Miller, State citrus extension agent, and Dr. Webster.

One of the most interesting features of this year's session will be the illustrated lectures tomorrow before the House of the University of California faculty, on the subject of "Contrasts in Citrus between Florida and California."

The school will close at 12:30 this afternoon, following another four-hour session.

Beauty Clay Applied With Fatal Result

PASADENA, Oct. 27.—Chloride of mercury poisoning contracted through expert use of a patented beauty "clay," caused the death late last night in the Pasadena Hospital of Mrs. Ethel M. Lytton, 234 Pasadena Avenue, Los Angeles, in an autopsy held here yesterday.

Mr. Lytton was brought into the hospital last night, her face in such condition from the application of the clay that she was unconscious. Dr. Willard J. Stone, 85 North Main Avenue, was immediately summoned, but the blood poisoning had advanced so far that it could not be checked, and the woman died.

County Coroner W. E. Patterson performed a post-mortem examination yesterday. The clay is sold in all drug stores and its fatal effects were probably started by an infection for which the product itself was not responsible. The clay was sold to a man named Patterson at 11th and Colorado streets last night. Gaines at the time of his death was a 21-year-old Negro, a waiter at the Hotel California. Los Angeles handwriting expert. He said that Goodwin, Patterson and himself left for San Diego March 12, in a car hired by the pastor, that the two men were on their way to the Knickerbocker Hotel and Gaines and Patterson to the Manhattan Hotel. Gaines and Patterson did considerable drinking of liquor, he said, from a downtown San Diego cigar store, a sailor having done the actual purchasing. Gaines tested the car for San Diego last night, Gaines at the wheel, the priest and the bond broker in the rear.

At about 7 o'clock next morning, at a point in Santa Ana Canyon, Goodwin insisted that Patterson was drunk and that he had to drive through a gate so that Goodwin could take Patterson to the home of friends in that section. Gaines said that last he saw of Patterson was as he was sitting on a gravel road, a bottle of gasoline with Goodwin holding him up.

After a time, estimated by Gaines as about forty-five minutes, or an hour, Gaines and Goodwin returned much disturbed and nervous. When Gaines asked for Patterson, he related that the pastor replied "don't discuss it." As the two were driving away from the gate, Gaines said, he heard Patterson had adjourned, just previous, Gaines said he looked back

"HOW TO VOTE DRY"

Candidates for public office who stoop to falsehood or misrepresentation are guilty of a deliberate attempt to mislead the electorate. Obviously, those who depart from the facts are conscious of weakness or inferiority and are seeking to present themselves in a false light.

Such an instance is found in a postal card being sent to voters in the Ninth Congress District in behalf of the candidacy of Charles H. Randall, Prohibition nominee for Congress.

This piece of campaign literature is labeled "How to Vote Dry" and asserts that Randall's candidacy has been endorsed by the Anti-Saloon League, the plain intention being to convey an impression that Randall's Republican opponent, W. E. Evans, is not sympathetic with the dry cause.

Public repudiation of the purported Randall endorsement has been sent to Mr. Evans by Dr. A. H. Briggs, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, who said:

"THERE HAS BEEN NO ENDORSEMENT BY THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE IN THE NINTH CONGRESS DISTRICT."

Mr. Evans has again made a statement to the effect that he is in communication to the Republican nominee, Dr. Briggs, who:

"Dear Mr. Evans:

"The situation in the Ninth Congress District is satisfactory to both candidates for dry. As to yourself, you are by no means a stranger to the Anti-Saloon League. For years you have consistently supported the dry cause. There is no question as to your dependability. If elected to Congress the interests with which the Anti-Saloon League are concerned will be altogether safe in your hands."

Having failed in his attempt to masquerade as a Republican, and to secure the nomination of his party, he appears to be at a loss to meet the economic needs of the district. It appears that Mr. Randall has again resorted to political trickery in a last-minute effort to further his political ambitions.

Mr. Evans not only has been endorsed by reason of his personal qualifications and his adherence to the principles and policies of the Republican party, but because of his leadership in behalf of enforcement of the prohibition law.

MULES WIN ROAD ARGUMENT

Animals Which Made Missouri Famous Prove More Than a Match for Small Automobile That Insisted On Using the Right of Way

EL MONTE, Oct. 27.—W. L. Hughes of Charter Oak knows more about mules than ever before in his life. He is wiser, sadder and out a perfectly good car as a result of becoming acquainted with a pair of full-grown working mules last night, due to his car unaccountably bumping into them while traveling at a legal rate of speed on Garvey avenue, south of El Monte. The mules were to bring an inch of great weight the momentum of the car that lifted one of them bodily onto the top of the car and carried him some hundred feet, while his running mate calmly rode astride the radiator. This method of transportation, according to Mr. Hughes, is the only way to get them to kick the driver to pieces in relay and, as soldiers say, "by the number." Flying glass injured Mrs. Hughes slightly and when she got out of the car, she said, "I'm not afraid of mules." Mr. Hughes learned that the mules were more than a match for any one driver.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 27.—Long Beach is going to you, a large group of fortune tellers, psychics, mediums and so-called personalists to drive into the city some of the future, and to tell you some of another world for a drive. That is to say, your mirror reflects in reality your future, which will continue to hold things in Long Beach a year to the city for that of And to make things more interesting, they will be required to put "good faith" as a plus factor.

Los Estados Ayudan a Obreros en
su Campaña Presidencial

CIUDAD DE MÉJICO, Octubre 27. Las legislaturas de los estados de Sinaloa y Durango han anunculado ya su propósito de votarla también.

La cámara federal de diputados ha aprobado ya la referida enmienda, que se habrá de someter a votación para su discusión. Si la alta cámara la desaprueba favorablemente, se necesita todavía, para que tenga fuerza de ley, que la adopte la mayoría de las legislaturas de los estados.

El objeto de la propuesta reforma es poner en actividad al general Obrero, que se postuló nuevamente para la presidencia, el año de 1928.

Explode el Cielo Industrial de los Estados Unidos

CHICAGO, Octubre 27.—Hoy se cumplió el aniversario de la fundación de la asociación de los profesionales de este país, los representantes de las seis industrias de los Estados Unidos, con más de mil millones de dólares de capital cada una.

Según lo que pueden discernir los líderes de las industrias petrolera, automotriz, de transportes y comercio, así como una personalidad de relieve en el campo de la finanza, se lleva en el campo de la industria, se lleva en el campo de las finanzas, se lleva en el campo de las industrias y en el de los negocios en general. Parece que todos los factores están de acuerdo en mantener segura y firme la calidad del barco mercantil.

Este cuatro de noviembre, se celebra la conferencia mixta anual de educación e industria, celebrada bajo los auspicios de la Universidad de Chicago y del Instituto de Conservación de la Caza, entreteniendo a profesionales de todo el mundo.

W. F. Parish, presidente del Instituto Petrolero Norteamericano, bocanéjó los proyectos y esperanzas de la industria del petróleo; Edward S. Johnson, presidente de la Asociación, hizo un resumen de la situación en el campo de los transportes en vehículos de esa clase; E. R. Graham, arquitecto de Chicago, pasó en revisión la industria de la edificación; Fred W. Sargent, presidente del Ferrocarril Chicago y Northwestern, habló en la conferencia sobre problemas ferroviarios. El campo de la finanza se fue encendido a Dwight W. Morrow, socio de la casa J. P. Morgan y Cia.

El Presidente Habla con Encanto del Amoroso, los Estados Unidos

WASHINGTON, Octubre 27.—El Presidente Coolidge sostiene que el anuncio ha desempeñado importantísimo papel en la consecución de la actual escala de salarios en los Estados Unidos, y cree que la consecuencia de esa escala es de primordial importancia para sostener el mercado doméstico.

En la alocución que pronunció la noche de hoy en el banquete anual de la Asociación de las Agencias Anunciantes, sostuvo el Presidente que no es inexacto decir que el anuncio es "la vida del comercio, y la base de la buena parte del éxito del sistema industrial norteamericano".

La preeminenencia de la industria norteamericana, que ha acarreado constantemente la reducción del precio de los costos, manifestó el Presidente, ha llevado a una considerable reducción en masa. La producción en masa, no es posible, sino cuando hay demanda en masa, y esta última ha sido creada casi exclusivamente por el desarrollo del sistema de autopistas.

"En tiempos pasados, esperaba uno que las mercancías se vendieran por sí mismas. Los negocios modernos no podrían haber sido creados, ni posiblemente podrían existir, sin el sistema industrial moderno, descansando sobre esta base de aumentar la producción por medio de la creciente demanda que el anuncio despierta."

UNITED OIL NET EARNINGS GAIN

Profits Equivalent to $7.56 on Outstanding Stock

Last Quarter Results Show $11.40 Annual Rate

Gallons Rises Despite Cut in Gasoline Price

Despite the unsettlement in the gasoline market, the United Oil Company yesterday reported an increase in sales of more than $10,000,000 for the first nine months of this year over the corresponding period of 1929. Net profits after the deduction of all charges, including depreciation and depletion, amounted to $2,402-$10,61, the equivalent to $7.56 on the outstanding capital stock. The company with $4.74 for the corresponding months of 1929.

For the third quarter, the net was $6,400,000, or at the annual rate of $11.40 on the outstanding shares. On this basis the earnings are nearly four times the company's present dividend requirements, and more than twice the amount per share of $5.31 earned for the full year of 1929.

SALES EXPAND

Gross sales, according to the statement issued, for the first nine months ended September 30, totalled $22,400,718.19 for the nine months, and $8,752,189.62 for the last quarter. In the last quarter approximately $4,481,000 worth of gasoline was sold, an increase of $2,055,000 over the previous quarter.

Concerning the gasoline market, Mr. Talbot states in the report:

"The recent and continuing price of gasoline on the Pacific Coast will quite naturally affect the earnings of the companies marketing gasoline in that territory. However, due to increased imports from foreign oil companies, improved facilities, and largely increased production of its own crude oil supply, your officers feel confident that your company is placed in a position where future earnings will compare most favorably with those of the past."

LAST REPORT

With this report, the United Oil Company passes out of existence, and the new Richfield Oil Company of California, which has been the nucleus of the acquisition of new properties, the new company, according to Mr. Talbot, has crude production in excess of 80 per cent of refinery requirements. The new company will be in a position to supply the market for the new policy for the new company will be made before the next dividend date.

REALTY BONDS ANALYZED

New York Better Business Bureau Points Out Evils in Building Financing; Urges Careful Study

BY EARL E. CROWE

Since the failure of G. L. Miller & Co., a house which had underwritten $65,000,000 of real-estate securities since 1920, real-estate mortgage bonds have been subjected to a thorough scrutiny by investment experts. Prior to the Miller failure the enormous increase in the flotation of this type of security, rising from $50,000,000 a year at the close of the war to $750,000,000, had called forth warnings from several quarters concerning the evils accompanying the financing in many instances.

Practices coming to light from the Miller investigation have led the Better Business Bureau of New York City to place its information on real-estate financing before the public with the thought of protecting investors and stimulating a demand for reform. Writing in the current issue of the Industrial Digest, R. J. Kenner, general manager of the Better Business Bureau of New York, discusses some of the evils accompanying the financing in many instances.

BY EARL E. CROWE

Mainly because investors have not been cautious and have been large buyers of all investment securities, some of the vendors of real-estate bonds have been led to disregard the limits of good judgment and to reach for large profits more quickly. Mr. Kenner explains in pointing out the reasons for the abuses in the real-estate field. And as a rule the buyers never learn of their mistakes until the interest is in default.

In its investigation of real-estate financing the New York Better Business Bureau found that the chief source of trouble has arisen from construction loans, or loans which have been sold to the public before the buildings have been built. These factors of value and not earnings from the operation of the property are necessary to reach for large profits more quickly. Mr. Kenner explains in pointing out the reasons for the abuses in the real-estate field. And as a rule the buyers never learn of their mistakes until the interest is in default.

easing its pace to keep up with the rally in stocks, the bond market scored substantial progress today in the most active trading session in several weeks. Buying orders were generously distributed throughout all parts of the list, bringing about numerous price advances of 1 to 2 points.

Underlying the better inquiry for bonds were reports that the New York financial and investment rate might possibly be lowered at an date. These were not regarded seriously in banking quarters, but they emphasized the great change which had taken place in the money outlook since the days of normal times when a tighter bank rate was generally expected.

The successful flotation of the Balfour stable loan bond issue in New York and in the European markets attracted a flood of buying orders for the new 7 per cent bonds today, carrying them up to 94 3-8, nearly 2 points above the offering price.

Borrowed here were mainly strengthened by indications that September earnings would set a new record and by such concrete evidence of prosperity as the diversified earnings of Pennsylvania and Norfolk and Western stocks. New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific, Seaboard and Southern Railroads were firm.

Selective purchases of industrial bonds embraced Elkhorn Coal 6's, which rose more than 2 points to a new high at par, Anglo-Chilean Nitrate 7's, and the new 6 1/2 per cent Anglo-Chilean 7's and Myres 7's.

A $26,000,000 bond issue for the Western Union Telegraph Company was promptly sold today and preparations were well advanced for the listing on behalf of the International Paper Company and the new Stinnes Companies within the next few days.

The position represents more than 500,000 bonds of the company, which were sold at 94 3-8, which averaged 94 1/2.

General Motors' common stock gained 5 3-4 points to 94 1/2 on buying, influenced by the recent price of 94 1/2 a share on the common.

The Company owns the real estate holdings of the Mercantile Trust Company of California and The American Bank, whose resources are combined to form one of the largest and most important banking institutions on the Pacific Coast.

The Realty Company will lease these properties to the two banks for a period of twenty-five years for a sum sufficient to pay all its operating expenses and taxes and leave it in addition a net sum of $800,000 per annum. This figure is more than sufficient to meet the interest and dividend requirements on the bonds and preferred stock, as well as the annual retirement requirements on both.

The properties to be acquired have been appraised for more than $13,000,000.

The above securities include in their strong features many other protective provisions designed to safeguard the interests of investors, and we take pleasure in recommending them to our clients.

Only The Genuine Can Be Genuine

RECORDS of investment houses are like the records behind any kind of desirable merchandise—good and valuable if genuine. But in every field of both finance and industry, jewelry or rugs or records, the public should take care to select the genuine and reject the spurious.

The record of S.W. STRAUS & CO. is a real and genuine one, of 44 years of single-minded devotion to the one field of safe city mortgage investments.

The founder of this business established it in 1869, dealing in farm mortgages, but we have always counted our record as dating from 1882, when we entered the city mortgage field.

In other words, our record is a legitimate one of 44 years under identical policies, management, and control. Every officer and director of this Company is constantly active in its affairs, and has devoted practically his entire business life to its furtherance.

After all, buying bonds is like buying anything else—your best protection lies in the responsibility, the experience and the integrity of the house from which you buy them. Investors seeking sound first mortgage bonds, backed by a genuine record, yielding at present 6% to 6.50%, with ample marketability, should write for

44 YEARS WITHOUT LOSS TO ANY INVESTOR

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (AP)—A marked improvement in prices took place in today's curb market. The buying movement, which embraced most of the high-grade stocks, was inspired by the rally on the "big board" and disclosed a small floating supply of many issues. New points of weakness cropped out in several sections of the list but failed to halt the upturn in other quarters.

Oil continued a firm undulation despite rather extensive gasoline price cuts and increased crude production. Vacuum, Reiter-Foster and Buckeye and Cumberland Pipe Lines advanced a point or more. Cities Service (new) and Panhandle advanced to record levels for the year. Venezuelan Petroleum also was active and strong.

The demand for the Industrials continued to improve, issues as Blue Bell & Co. (new) DuPont, Franklin Radio, General Baking and White Sewing Machine, all of which added a point or more higher.

Bonds were again active with a jump of over 4 points in Cities Service 8's of 1928, which touched a new record high at 128 1/4, as the outstanding feature.

Old Steel's were heavy.

The closing price is certified when same is the high, and both low and close when same as the high.

By the City Directory—(1926)—1,360,000COUNCIL STANDS
FOR WRIGHT ACTOfficials Go on Record
Against RepealCouncil Votes Reaffirms
Construction Support.Voters of Proposition No. 9
by People Urged

City Council yesterday

voted unanimously

opposition to the repeal of

the Wright State prohibition

measure as proposed by

Proposition No. 9 on the agenda of next Tuesday's

general election.

Proposition No. 9

would give both Northern

and Southern California

their highway rights, already long withheld.

Acting upon the orders of John Francis Neylan, Hearst's

San Francisco publisher and dictator of Hearst policies on the Pacific Coast, the Hearst papers in both cities are engaged in a desperate effort to secure passage of Proposition No. 4 on next Tuesday's ballot, the Northern California highway measure,

and to defeat Proposition No. 8, the alternative proposition put on the ballot by the Automobile Club of Southern California to give to both Northern and Southern California their

exact due in highway construction and highway maintenance.

In furtherance of this effort to perpetuate the present and

past intolerable iniquities of highway fund distribution—which

Proposition No. 4 will accomplish—the Hearst newspapers are flooding the State with editorials, news articles and cartoons in which are set forth absolute and intentional controversies of

fact regarding both highway propositions.

Elsewhere in this issue of The Times appears a full page of reproductions of clippings from California Hearst papers

which tell their own story of this wholesale effort to plunder

Southern California for the profit of the north—at the behest

of Neylan, Hearst's vice-regent in California, a northern man.

Reproduced with these clippings is a facsimile of Proposition

No. 8 as it will appear on the ballot, with a plain statement of its provisions. The misstatements and the facts alike are worthy of the most careful study by every voter.

It is fair to say that the publishers of the two Hearst papers in Los Angeles have no particular relish for the job imposed upon them by Hearst's San Francisco dictator. The fact that both papers circulate and derive their support almost exclusively in Southern California makes it poor business policy

to attempt to sell out Southern California's interests for the benefit of the north. The overwhelming endorsement of Proposition No. 8 by more than 95 per cent of the civic, commercial

and other organizations of the south makes still more distasteful

the task of carrying out Mr. Neylan's orders. This doubtless explains in a measure why the outgiving on the subject of

the Los Angeles Examiner and the Los Angeles Herald appear somewhat lukewarm by comparison with those of their

San Francisco contemporaries.

There is nothing lukewarm in the enthusiastic misrepressentations of the issue in Hearst's San Francisco papers. In front-page news articles, blackface editorials and shrieking

cartoons these organs denounce Proposition No. 8, the Southern California highway measure, as one calculated to divide the State, to take away from the north all but a miserable pittance

of highway funds and as a "bare-faced grab" by an insignificant

portion of California, to wit: the thirteen southern counties.

"Pass No. 4 and kill No. 8!" shrieks the San Francisco

Examiner.

"Vote for No. 4 and against No. 8" weakly echoes the

Los Angeles Examiner.

Proposition No. 4, the northern measure, would add another cent per gallon tax on gasoline, making 3 cents tax altogether. The proceeds of this additional tax would be divided between Northern California and Southern California in the same manner as at present and in the past, no provision being made for any other method of distribution.

THIS MEANS THAT SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA,

WHICH HAS 58 PER CENT OF ALL THE STATE'S

AUTOMOBILES AND WHICH SUPPLIES OVER 60 PER

CENT OF ALL THE GASOLINE TAX MONEY, WILL

CONTINUE TO GET, AS AT PRESENT, 35 PER CENT

OF THE HIGHWAY FUNDS AND THAT NORTHERN

CALIFORNIA, WHICH SUPPLIES LESS THAN 40 PER

CENT OF THE MONEY, WILL GET 65 PER CENT OF

IT. HOW THIS ARRANGEMENT HAS WORKED OUT

IN THE PAST IS SHOWN BY THE FACT THAT

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, WITH HALF THE AREA

OF THE STATE, OVER HALF THE POPULATION,

OVER HALF THE WEALTH, AND OVER HALF THE

TAX ROLL, HAS BEEN ALLOWED EXACTLY 2500

MILES OF THE 6629 MILES OF STATE HIGHWAYS.

Proposition No. 8, the Southern California measure denounced by the Hearst papers, provides for an exactly equitable division of the highway funds for maintenance and construction.

It proposes to appropriate $5,000,000 a year for twelve years of general funds for highway construction and to divide

it as follows between the thirteen counties which comprise

Southern California and the rest of the State:

Three-fourths of all the construction money will be used

for primary highway building and will be divided in proportion to primary State highway mileage possessed by each section.

THIS WILL GIVE NORTHERN CALIFORNIA 53 PER

CENT OF THE $3,500,000 A YEAR ALLOCATED FOR PRIM-

ARY HIGHWAY BUILDING AND WILL GIVE

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA 47 PER CENT. The remaining

fourth of the highway-building money, or $1,500,000 a year, is for secondary highway construction and is to be divided be-

between the north and south in proportion to the area of each

section. THIS WILL GIVE NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

52 PER CENT OF THIS MONEY AND 48 PER CENT TO

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. The road-maintenance funds, raised by the present gasoline tax, will be divided as follows:

One-third to primary highways according to the primary highway mileage of each section and two-thirds to primary and

secondary highways in proportion to the number of motor vehicles in each section. THIS WILL GIVE NORTHERN

CALIFORNIA 48 PER CENT OF ALL MAINTENANCE

FUNDS AND SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA 52 PER CENT.

Taken as a whole, it will be seen that Proposition No. 8

provides for a division of all funds as nearly equitable as is possible, according to present county lines. AND THAT, IF

ANYTHING, IT SLIGHTLY FAVORS NORTHERN

CALIFORNIA.

Now listen to what the Hearst papers say of these measures:

San Francisco Examiner, October 11: "DEFEAT NO. 8,

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA HIGHWAY GRAB!"

No. 8 provides that three-quarters of the money must go each year for "primary highways" of which the great bulk are in the south [1]. In a nutshell the south gets three-quarters of all the new roads to be built in the next term of years and

lets them first; the north gets one-quarters and gets them

last . . . and the State is split."

HEARST AND THE HIGHWAYS HOOVER COMES HOME TO VOTE

In all the spotted annals of political demagoguery there have been no more brazen and unprincipled efforts to deceive the voting public than that which is now being conducted by the Hearst newspapers of Los Angeles and San Francisco to rob Southern California of her highway rights, already long withheld.

Acting upon the orders of John Francis Neylan, Hearst's San Francisco publisher and dictator of Hearst policies on the Pacific Coast, the Hearst papers in both cities are engaged in a desperate effort to secure passage of Proposition No. 4 on next Tuesday's ballot, the Northern California highway measure, and to defeat Proposition No. 8, the alternative proposition put on the ballot by the Automobile Club of Southern California to give to both Northern and Southern California their exact due in highway construction and highway maintenance.

In furtherance of this effort to perpetuate the present and past intolerable iniquities of highway fund distribution—which Proposition No. 4 will accomplish—the Hearst newspapers are flooding the State with editorials, news articles and cartoons in which are set forth absolute and intentional controversies of fact regarding both highway propositions.

Elsewhere in this issue of The Times appears a full page of reproductions of clippings from California Hearst papers which tell their own story of this wholesale effort to plunder Southern California for the profit of the north—at the behest of Neylan, Hearst's vice-regent in California, a northern man. Reproduced with these clippings is a facsimile of Proposition No. 8 as it will appear on the ballot, with a plain statement of its provisions. The misstatements and the facts alike are worthy of the most careful study by every voter.

It is fair to say that the publishers of the two Hearst papers in Los Angeles have no particular relish for the job imposed upon them by Hearst's San Francisco dictator. The fact that both papers circulate and derive their support almost exclusively in Southern California makes it poor business policy to attempt to sell out Southern California's interests for the benefit of the north. The overwhelming endorsement of Proposition No. 8 by more than 95 per cent of the civic, commercial and other organizations of the south makes still more distasteful the task of carrying out Mr. Neylan's orders. This doubtless explains in a measure why the outgiving on the subject of the Los Angeles Examiner and the Los Angeles Herald appear somewhat lukewarm by comparison with those of their San Francisco contemporaries.

There is nothing lukewarm in the enthusiastic misrepresentations of the issue in Hearst's San Francisco papers. In front-page news articles, blackface editorials and shrieking cartoons these organs denounce Proposition No. 8, the Southern California highway measure, as one calculated to divide the State, to take away from the north all but a miserable pittance of highway funds and as a "bare-faced grab" by an insignificant portion of California, to wit: the thirteen southern counties.

"Pass No. 4 and kill No. 8!" shrieks the San Francisco

Examiner.

"Vote for No. 4 and against No. 8" weakly echoes the

Los Angeles Examiner.

Proposition No. 4, the northern measure, would add another cent per gallon tax on gasoline, making 3 cents tax altogether. The proceeds of this additional tax would be divided between Northern California and Southern California in the same manner as at present and in the past, no provision being made for any other method of distribution.

THIS MEANS THAT SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, WHICH HAS 58 PER CENT OF ALL THE STATE'S AUTOMOBILES AND WHICH SUPPLIES OVER 60 PER CENT OF ALL THE GASOLINE TAX MONEY, WILL CONTINUE TO GET, AS AT PRESENT, 35 PER CENT OF THE HIGHWAY FUNDS AND THAT NORTHERN CALIFORNIA, WHICH SUPPLIES LESS THAN 40 PER CENT OF THE MONEY, WILL GET 65 PER CENT OF IT. HOW THIS ARRANGEMENT HAS WORKED OUT IN THE PAST IS SHOWN BY THE FACT THAT SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, WITH HALF THE AREA OF THE STATE, OVER HALF THE POPULATION, OVER HALF THE WEALTH, AND OVER HALF THE TAX ROLL, HAS BEEN ALLOWED EXACTLY 2500 MILES OF THE 6629 MILES OF STATE HIGHWAYS.

Proposition No. 8, the Southern California measure de-nounced by the Hearst papers, provides for an exactly equitable division of the highway funds for maintenance and construction. It proposes to appropriate $5,000,000 a year for twelve years of general funds for highway construction and to divide it as follows between the thirteen counties which comprise Southern California and the rest of the State:

Three-fourths of all the construction money will be used for primary highway building and will be divided in proportion to primary State highway mileage possessed by each section.

THIS WILL GIVE NORTHERN CALIFORNIA 53 PER

CENT OF THE $3,500,000 A YEAR ALLOCATED FOR PRIM-

ARY HIGHWAY BUILDING AND WILL GIVE

A boom for Senator Reed for President
began to run wild around Kansas City re-

have stopped off in that city long enough
to say, "I will be glad to get back in line
with the Democratic party if they will nominate a real Democrat like Reed." However, Reed said nothing. He recalled what William's support had done for other candidates.TO SAVE LIVES
The scream of the siren is heard.
Traffic halts to make way for a speeding
police ambulance on its errand of mercy.
After a long, hazardous dash to the scene
of the accident the ambulance starts on its
equally dangerous return trip through the traffic to our lone Receiving Hospital. At such times lives are measured by minutes
and delay frequently means death.Such incidents occur in Los Angeles scores of times daily. With the increase in automobile traffic the number of emergency cases cared for at the Receiving Hospital has increased 400 per cent in the past ten years.Police Surgeon Goodrich and his able
and efficient staff of surgeons and nurses are giving the city remarkable service with inadequate facilities and despite the lack of
branch emergency hospitals in the outlying sections of the city.The time has come to provide more hospital buildings and equipment to adequately
serve the people of Los Angeles and to
give lives. These buildings and this equipment
for the new Central Receiving Hospital and for branch hospitals will be provided from the $250,000 bond issue which
is presented to the voters at next Tuesday's election as Proposition 21-A. The
amount asked for is small, yet with this
modest sum the lives of hundreds of people will be saved.A vote of "Yes" on Proposition 21-A is
strongly recommended by The Times.A LIEN LABOR
The Chamber of Commerce and the Associated General Contractors of America
are among many organizations opposing Proposition 6-A on the ballot at next Tuesday's election, and The Times believes that
their opposition is based on a solid foundation of facts and conditions.Proposition 6-A is a proposed charter
amendment which would bar aliens from Los Angeles public work. This includes
street, sewer, storm drain and other construction work which is paid for by taxes
or by assessments. The measure is sponsored by the labor unions as a means of further unionizing public work.The contractors point out that they use American labor when available. They show that alien labor is not employed to any great extent in public work here, and that only on such work as most Americans decide to perform. Los Angeles has a large number of alien residents largely supported by unskilled labor of the lowest
class—work which must be done and which few but they will do.If Proposition 6-A is adopted by the voters the effect will be seriously to delay
public improvements and to add considerably to their cost. The result will be higher
or taxes and higher assessments to meet
the increased construction costs. Another result will be to throw out of work many
of our local foreign-born, making them
potential charge on the community, without any corresponding benefit to Americans.An attempt was made at the last Legislature to pass a State law excluding
aliens from California State public work.
The contractors and many associations set forth to the Legislature that the result of
the enactment of this measure would be
higher taxes and delays in the construction
of highways and other public improvements and the bill was defeated.The Times believes that it is an unnecessary and unwise provision to restrict contractors and public officials in the employment of labor and that Proposition 6-A is economically unsound and should be defeated.

STOP POISONING YOUTH:

Citing the scandalous conduct of a large number of Mid-Western college students of both sexes while on an excursion
train going to a football game, in which
alcohol illicit liquor played an unpleasantly
prominent part, an eastern critic sighs
at the report of the riotous behavior of the young people of the party, obtrudes the
all-too-common pessimistic view that the
rising generation is or soon will be hopelessly degenerate.While the details of the orgy, as reported
by the press, were, indeed, shocking, no
such deduction as that made by the critic
referred to reasonably can be drawn from
the account nor from that of a few other
affairs of a like nature appearing in the news columns in recent months. If one or twenty swallows made a summer, then
these comparatively isolated exhibitions of
immoral conduct on the part of young people might be considered as of universal
modern significance, whereas they merely denote a tendency and one that belongs to no particular period.In this Mid-Western case it must be borne in mind that like two somewhat similar though milder California cases that
have cropped up during the present year,
the fault is to be charged to bootleggers,
who, for the sake of petty gains, tempted the youths to purchase their poison. A strict enforcement of the Volstead Act
would put the bootleggers out of business
or, at least, decrease their debauchery of youth, but this strict enforcement we are not likely to have in California if the Wright Act is repealed at the coming election, though, of course, the Federal government may be counted upon to do its best without State aid.From all accounts, the behavior of the young people on the excursion train was no worse than that seen on Sunday picnic
trains and boats in preprohibition times.
In any case, it is wrong to assume that
our young people have worse instincts than those of a generation or two ago. It may be that they are less conventional,
that they have less regard for what the world may think or say about their personal conduct, but at heart who doubts the essential goodness of the average modern
boy or girl any more than that of that boy or girl of twenty years ago?But just as temptation has snared and ruined young people—and old people—in all times, so will it continue to do if it is permitted to be spread before human beings,
with their innately fallible nature. A bootlegger who will make and sell poison
is a criminal, but when, with insidious
speech, he offers it to one of tender years,
he is to be adjudged nothing short of a fiend and should be treated as such. Anything that can be done to curtail his activities should be done without fail, and no
opportunity should be missed to put him down and keep him down.It is greatly to be feared that the repeal of the Wright Act would result in a formidable increase in the number of boot-
leggers and the volume of dangerous
beverages they make and sell. One may count
upon the good people of California to vote
"No" on Proposition No. 9 wherever their attention is called to it, just as one may count upon all the bootleggers and their friends in the State to vote "Yes."DONT TAX FOOD
No good reason has yet been advanced why Californians should vote to put
a tax on a food product, so that one competitor may profit at the expense of another.
That is the gist of Proposition No. 3
on the November ballot.The regulatory features of this measure are merely camouflage. The production and the sale of margarine are already thoroughly
regulated, both by the State and the United States. The regulations now in force prevent the use of unwholesome ingredients,
provide for purity and healthfulness and protect the public against fraud. What appears to be sought are burdensome restrictions
from which the public would not benefit.Who would benefit? Not the producers of milk, but the manufacturers of butter,
who do not appear to be materially hurt
by margarine competition as matters stand.
The California butter manufacturers last year lacked 22,000,000 pounds of being able
to supply the California demand for butter,
since this amount was imported from other States and from foreign countries. The total consumption of margarine was only
about 15,000,000 pounds, less than one-sixth
the total butter consumption.The time has come to provide more hospital buildings and equipment to adequately
serve the people of Los Angeles and to
give lives. These buildings and this equipment
for the new Central Receiving Hos-
pital and for branch hospitals will be provided from the $250,000 bond issue which
is presented to the voters at next Tues-
day's election as Proposition 21-A. The
amount asked for is small, yet with this
modest sum the lives of hundreds of people will be saved.A vote of "Yes" on Proposition 21-A is strongly recommended by The Times.

A Glutton for Punishment

form a precedent for them to seek a still
higher tax and for other food manufacturers
to seek unjust and discriminatory advantages over competitors.

Vote "No" on No. 3.

THE WATCH DOG
Proposition No. 17-A on the municipal ballot is intentionally misleading in its presentation to the voter. The ordinance
asks the people to disapprove it is only
one-fourteenth in the playground matter, and
even with the playgrounds provided by this bond issue it will stand no higher than eighth or ninth. It should have a playground for each 10,000 of population; it
has now only one for each 45,000 and is growing so rapidly that even this proportion will not long be maintained.The ordinance goes a great deal farther than this. It gives an officer the power to enter a citizen's private premises and
remove his property without the formality
of a search warrant. Judge Kergan
recently issued a injunction in a liquor case last week
that such a proceeding—where illegal
booze is the object sought—is a trespass
on the rights of the householder.This ordinance stands it will make every property owner who has a watch
dog to guard his premises liable to a fine
of $500 and a six months' jail sentence if
he gives his dog sufficient freedom to really guard his property. The ordinance was not one merely to prevent dogs running at large
in the city for light and air to circulate.The issue will provide also for a bathing pool in Exposition Park, which will be needed if Los Angeles is to be adequately prepared for the coming of the Olympic Games
in 1932.Now they say man can live over an hour without fresh air and we'll have to wait that much longer for a telephone booth.

TO A CROW

By James J. Montague

If you believe that hell you snatched

The while you caved your coarse delight

Can you say half be hatched

You really can't be very bright.

If man an egg could fabricate,

Are you so vain as to suppose

That by its means he would create

More treacherous crows?

If you imagine that in time

When the autumn rains bedewed,

The cold object of your crime

Will hatch and furnish you with food.

As months drag by you'll change your mind—

But you will watch beside it long

And hungrily before you find

That you are wrong.

If you perchance defend your theft—

Providing you're not dead to shame—

By thinking that you may profit

With practice at the ancient game.

Again you err—a lot of meg

Have nursed that foolish hope before

And you will find it futile when

You see their score.

I wonder why you took that ball.

I marked my longest brassie shot,

I thrilled what time I watched it fall.

And bragged about the clout I'd got.

You seized it as I rimmed the cup.

And basely flew away to hide

And no one saw you pick it up—

They think I lied.

DIRTY POLITICS

The wholesale arrest of the tire Board of Supervisors, Los Angeles Commissioner, Farm Securities and Mechanical Commission one fell swoop by Asst. U. S. Commissioner, has brought to a head a threatened situation that has for some months loomed on the horizon due to the building of the San Gabriel dam and the election of Supervisor Coggeshall.

The whole thing began months ago when the powers behind the corrupt city government of Los Angeles sought to get control of the county government in the same as they had secured control of the city government. This was to be accomplished by placing county officials and allies in positions with men under the nose of the French gang.

This conspiracy was published on the front page of the Los Angeles Times, and the gang having leaked out the following influence of its best resorts in the Southwest, the announced purpose of the "grand old gang" being to have the Board of Supervisors arrested so as to accomplish a wholesale turnover at the most opportune time.

Back of this conspiracy is a powerful organization that has a patronage and controls vast ramifications all through the state and even outside the limits of municipality. The success of the arrest at this time was liberally premeditated. It is the plan of the "grand old gang" to maintain its power.

The evidences of complicity for the event are many and obvious. The objects to be accomplished are far-reaching and momentous. The attitude of Secretary Jardine of the Department of Agriculture in awaiting the return three weeks ago to the railroad to the San Gabriel dam, proved conclusively that he had advised his superiors that his entry into the Los Angeles office was considered by many officials who knew him to be under complete direction of the "grand old gang" to spore the necessary action to secure the differences between the Board of Supervisors and the President. Officials have dropped hints of contemplated action.

What Women are Doing

By Myra Nye

More than 1000 reservations have been made for the first social function of the season for Los Angeles Ebell Club. The affair will be a Halloween bridge-luncheon at the Edgewater Club of Santa Monica tomorrow evening.

Mrs. William J. Wilson, who so successfully planned many brilliant parties for girls last year, is again chairman of the tea-and-supper committee.

Mrs. Anna, soprano of the Opera Company of Paris, and also of the Chicago Opera Company, will appear in groups of songs. It was before Ebell Club that Miss Namara, then a Los Angeles girl, made her first public appearance.

There is a bit of sentiment attached to her appearance tomorrow.

She is a lovely voice of warmth and personality, and a delightful personality.

Mr. Hinsdale, who will accompany her at the piano.

Hostesses who will assist Mrs. Wilson include Mrs. Earl Rivers, Mrs. C. C. Chaffin, Mrs. S. E. Dickinson, Mrs. Dwight G. Moore, Mrs. E. Palmer Tucker, Mrs. Charles V. Vorst and Mrs. Clinton F. Whittier.

Proceeds to be one of the chief proceeds of the party, which promises to be one of the most successful of many successful Ebell affairs.

It will go to the club's three philanthropies, Rest Cottage, scholarship and practical relief.

Membership Drive

With each member urged to bring in at least one new member, the Wednesday night drive of the Wednesday Morning Club is on for all the aspects of success. Mrs. William W. Goss, membership chairman, is making many plans for the interest of all members.

The Gold Mine Under Your Hat is the subject of a lecture to be given tonight in the assembly room of the National Women's Congress Association at 941 South Figueroa.

Girl Scout Activities

Half-Hour Talks

With the change of its meeting place and time to the Hotel Figueroa at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon the Chicago Woman's Club has inaugurated a series of half-hour talks to be given that are interesting to all.

On November 4, Mrs. G. G. Jones, a brilliant woman attorney.

Now the first point that you have immediate control over, is the diet of that man or yours. You didn't

state his habits, but unless he is an invalid, he is not fat.

His dietary habits are all bad.

There is no doubt at that point, as his sour

stomach, chronic joint inflammation,

allergic attacks and overeating

all point to it. Disease in the chemistry of the body, resulting

from incorrect diet, can be manifested

in the skin as well as other places.

There is another thing that we have to consider in connection with your husband's case and that is the possibility of lead poisoning from his painting work, unless he is very careful.

Pсориазис is one of the most difficult of skin diseases to cure permanently.

The cause of the disease

is not known.

Doctors believe it is due to infection

or that it is inherited and still others believe that it is a disturbance of the nervous system.

Diseases associated with psoriasis

are some of those who have psoriasis are rheumatic and gouty.

The patches of psoriasis appear

mostly upon the covered parts, and

daily exposure to the sun's rays is not good for the reducing booklet.

Meanwhile, have your husband go on an exclusive raw fruit and vegetable diet for four to six weeks, not exceeding 900 calories a day, so that he will reduce from five to ten

pounds immediately and will stock up on vitamins.

After that, have him eat the raw foods and sweets entirely, and possibly meat, fish and eggs for a while.

ACTOR ASKS DIVORCE ON DESERTION

Karl Dane, "Slim" of "The Big Parade," Says Wife Refuses to Return

Karl Dane, who sprang from the comparative obscurity of being a Van Nuys carpenter into national prominence as the gangling, tobacco-chewing "Slim" of "The Big Parade," yesterday obtained a divorce from Mrs. Emma Dane after a brief hearing before Judge Turner.

"I used it to baptize a baby," Van Nuys carpenter told the court, he said.

Desertion was charged by Dane, who told Judge Turner that his wife had left him in 1924 when he was "only" a carpenter in Van Nuys, and had not returned.

Attorney G. O. Bacon for Mrs. Dane and J. J. Wilson, the attorney, joined in assuring Judge Wood that a property settlement had been made out of the case.

Mr. Wright is manager of public relations for all Bell-system companies in Southern California. He is president of the Southern California chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America.

Pioneer Dies at Place Won by Homesteading

Michael J. Priester, 65 years of age, died last night at his home, 1177 North Vermont Avenue, where he had lived for the past 50 years. He was a native of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, but migrated here in 1909 with a brother and they homesteaded a place where he died. Death resulted from a complication of causes, following a long illness.

Mr. Priester was in business in Los Angeles for many years, operating a store called "The Fair." He was one of the organizers, more than two years ago, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church at the intersection of Fifth and Olive streets, from which point the funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Burial will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Besides his widow, he is survived by three children, Miss Ethel Priester and Edwin and Dr. Arthur J. Priester.

CHAMBER TO AID IN AIR-STATION MOVE

Every effort to have the United States naval air station established at San Diego will be made by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, according to G. A. Arnell, secretary and general manager of the local chamber. He said that the local directors, following a careful survey of the conditions, have pledged their support to the movement. The action was taken following a report of the committee of the military and naval affairs committee of the local chamber, headed by Col. A. J. Clegg, chairman. It is proposed to move the main headquarters of the naval air station from the east coast to the west coast. Because of the round trip flying conditions of Southern California, it is suggested that the headquarters be established at San Diego.

REVIEWS AUGMENTED

Adding to its weekly fashion promenades for adults, the Mary Louise has arranged to display on Saturday beginning November 6, at the luncheon hour, 1000000 fashions in children's play and party frocks. A dozen types of interest to children also will be presented.

Decision Due in Few Days on Aimee McPherson Case

HANDWRITING EXPERTS TO GIVE TESTIMONY TODAY

Defense Springs Surprise When It Calls Hahn on Avengers Note; Son of Mrs. Wiseman Found

statement of any kind indicating how she had been treated, a decision.

Mr. Woolley is an attorney, testifying concerning his connection with the Wiseman angle of the case. Mrs. Wiseman's son, Mr. Gilbert, said, will be the first witness when the case is resumed on 10 a.m. today. He was followed by Mr. Woolley and then by the handwriting experts.

The religious leader gave the signature of a treat, if not a will, when she was in court following the noon recess in pure white from head to foot. She wore a soft felt hat, purple feather in it; a white suit, a white high collar, a white tammy dress with a white belt and stockings and a white knit coat.

Her new garb, so much on contrast to the dress of black of which she has been known, seemed to attract the eye of and to interest more the onlookers than did the witnesses who testified. Mrs. Kennedy, too, wore a different black hat and Mrs. Wiseman had a pace by wearing a new hat near, every day.

Among those present yesterday was Mr. Woolley's wife, this being the first known call to the courtroom of Mrs. Woolley since the hearing opened.

When Mr. Hahn was called to the stand it readily was seen he was as much interested in anyone she and he was mystified as to what he was to be asked.

"Not having an attorney, I will be permitted to make my own objections to the questions," he said.

Judge Blake answered in the affirmative.

Mr. Gilbert indicated the defense handwriting experts will give testimony on the handwriting in substance will be, it was said, that the photostatic copies of the Carmel grocery lists were "doctorized" in order that they could be presented as damaging evidence against the evangelist. This testimony is expected to be one of the high lights of today's session.

STARTS WITH RANG
The session yesterday started off with a bang when Mr. Hahn informed the court that Robert Wiseman, 10 years of age, Mrs. Wiseman's son, will be present in court today as a defense witness.

He received a long-distance telephone call from Mrs. Wiseman's son and he told me he was being read in the newspapers he was being hunted and he informed me he will be present tomorrow. Mr. Hahn informed the court, "He will answer any questions asked by Mrs. McPherson or Mrs. Kennedy."

Mr. Gilbert then made some side remarks after which the defense started. Mr. Hahn later said that Mr. Gilbert had remarked that he might not have the son in court. "Here's what Mr. Hahn said at the start:

"I'll assure the court I'll have Mrs. Wiseman's son in court quicker than Aimee McPherson will bring in Kenneth G. Ormsby."

Yesterday afternoon the defense called Mrs. Maud Gano to the stand in an effort to show the court, through her testimony, as Mr. Gilbert put it, the character and reputation of Mrs. Wiseman. The witness stated Mrs. Wiseman resided at the same house on Alvarado street that she did during May, June and July of this year.

REPORT BALKED
Efforts of Mr. Gilbert to show that Mrs. Wiseman had been in court on asserted fictitious check were frustrated by Mr. Hahn but the intimation was sufficient for the court to know the reason for calling Mrs. Gano. Two checks given Mrs. Gano to Mrs. Wiseman, and the other given by Mrs. Wiseman to Mrs. Gano were marked for identification.

Mr. Gilbert sought to show the first check was given by Mrs. Gano to Mrs. Wiseman as a loan but Hahn again objected and was sustained.

Three defense experts, including Hahn, took the stand yesterday. They were Mrs. Elizabeth Frame of Santa Monica who, the State charges, acted as a go-between for Mrs. Wiseman and her mother; Mrs. Herbert Price, and Miss Margaret Attaway, a nurse from the Calumet Hospital, Douglas, Ariz.

She agreed to stand to tell what she knew of the meetings between Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. McPherson and Mrs. Wiseman at Mrs. Wiseman's home and her conversations with the hoax woman. Her daughter told of Mrs. McPherson's telephone conversation with a man who R. A. McKinley, late blind lawman of Los Angeles, was representing by "Steve," "Bob" and a third kidnapper.

MONEY WIRED
Mrs. Frame completed her testimony yesterday morning, which concerned visits made to her beach home in Santa Monica by Mrs. Wiseman, Mr. McPherson and Mrs. Kennedy. The amount of the $600 given to Mrs. Wiseman in San Francisco at the former's request and stated that the money was given to her by Mrs. Kennedy.

She told of a telephone conversation she had with Mrs. Wiseman while the latter was in the north, in which Mrs. Wiseman told her she was only defrauding Mrs. Wiseman's expenses. She stated Mrs. Wiseman suggested Mrs. Frame meet with Mr. McPherson and his mother over her telephone as Mrs. Wiseman thought the wire at Angelus Temple had been tapped.

On one occasion, she said, Mrs. Wiseman and her son were at her home and the son was taking notes

SERIES OF DEFENSE WITNESSES INTRODUCED TO SUBSTANTIATE VARIOUS PARTS OF STORY RELATED BY AIMEE MCPHERSON ON RETURN

Mrs. Elizabeth Frame, confidante of Angelus Temple leaders, and accused by the State of acting as a "go-between" for Aimee McPherson and Mrs. Wiseman's mother, and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman, self-styled Carmel-hoax arranger, verified the relationship between herself and Mrs. Wiseman when she was recalled to the stand for continued examination.

On one occasion, Mrs. Frame testified, Mrs. Wiseman, accompanied by Mrs. McPherson or Mrs. Kennedy, and made arrangements for another call later in the evening, but Miss Schaffer, the evangelist's secretary, forgot to deliver the message.

Portions of Mrs. Frame's testimony follow:

Question: Did you talk with Mrs. Wiseman again, after that?

Answer: Yes, she called again, I believe, the day she was supposed to have arrived here. She was to have been here on June 15.

A: Yes, do you remember anything she ate at all?

Q: Do you remember any of it? How long did you say you had been a nurse, Miss Attaway?

A: I graduated in 1920.

Q: What were your expenses up here, Miss Attaway?

A: Mrs. McPherson, that is, I suppose she did. Mr. Bowden gave me $60 upon leaving Douglas, and then she gave me $60, and also my salary by Mrs. McPherson, and none of that has been discussed since.

PROMOTERSTen of Jeffries Group Are Indicted by Federal Body
on Mail Charge

Ten persons connected with the former management of the Jeffries Automatic Service Company were indicted yesterday by the United States grand jury, on charges of using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

Names of four of the defendants were held secret, but U. S. Atty. McNabb gave out the names of six, who are George M. Petter and Herbert G. Danforth of Los Angeles, Elmer B. Jeffries and Charles E. Jeffries of Dallas, Tex., and Dwight L. Seymour and Charles E. Forbes, whose addresses McNabb did not have. The company has been under investigation since August, 1925. It now has an entirely new management and is operating in the slot-machine distribution of pies and sandwiches.

Bonds of $15,000 each were demanded for the first four named and of $10,000 each for Seymour and Forbes, former Asst. U. S. Atty. Danforth is still in charge for the Los Angeles division and is permitted to provide bail for them.

The Jeffries company was organized in April, 1924, to lease and sell the slot vending machines, according to the charges. From April, 1924, to August, 1925, the company lost $500,000 in servicing and repairing the machines. Later, it is asserted, some "milking companies" were organized and took a disproportionate share of the profits of the Jeffries.

One of the ten, the charge say, was the Patent Holding and Operating Company, which, after its organization, purchased the slot machines for $6,75 each and sold them at $29.75 each, and sold them at $125 to $300 each, making a profit of about $30,000,000, according to the charges. From April, 1924, to August, 1925, the company lost $500,000 in servicing and repairing the machines. Later, it is asserted, some "milking companies" were organized and took a disproportionate share of the profits of the Jeffries.

The Patent Holding and Operating Company, which, after its organization, purchased the slot machines for $6,75 each and sold them to the Jeffries company at $11.75 and not only thus collected $2 on each machine, but was paid a back royalty of $2 on each machine which the Jeffries company had purchased previously. The Dardine Inn Association is another company to which, it is charged, wrongfully amounts were paid. It is charged these operations defrauded the stockholders of the Jeffries company.

NAVIGATION OR NO NAVIGATION — ANY PORT WITH ALL FLAGS FLYING — I HAVE KNOWN THE SUBDIVISION NAME I STARTED BUT WITH WHAT WE LEARNED IN THE PAST THREE MONTHS I COULD SUBDIVIDE THE STATE OF TEXAS WHILE THE ORDINARY SUBDIVISION WAS TRYING TO FIND OUT WHAT COUNTRY IT WAS IN.

Buy a Business And Grow With Southern California

New ventures are being planned; important developments are under way; old and successful enterprises are ready for young hands — and Southern California grows on and on!

Why not grow with it? To know what are these opportunities, and where, you have only to follow the "Business Opportunity" columns of Times Want Ads. They tell, every morning, about scores of good openings — how you can make money and grow with the Southland.

IT WOULD KEEP YOU AS BUSY FINDING SOMETHING TO DO AS YOU ARE NOW. THE NEIGHBORS WOULD KNOW ALL THE FAMILY SECRETS AND I'D HAVE TO FOOT THE BILL.

Back to the Camera for FACTS . . .

This page contains nothing but facts—but they're not all set in type! Every line of the picture is also a fact—a camera fact! Not reproduced from a drawing, but from an actual photograph. Moreover . . . not potted and posed into position, but caught in natural action. The threads you see weaving in and out of the pattern are the actual all-wool threads of the F & C $50 coat lifted off our racks for the occasion.

Note the fine drape and soft, free swing of this sleeve caught by the camera in natural action!

Sparks never flew wider than they did a few weeks ago when we first published this astounding profit-average for 1925, proved by Certified Statements from Haskins & Sells, internationally prominent Public Accountants. Since then we have affably complied with several requests from perplexed clothing men to view for themselves the original report from which the statement was quoted.

We dip our designers down into the richest source of ideas in America . . . our personal records of the thoughts and whims of the taste and choice . . . of half a million men from coast to coast. But we sit them down on Ave., New York (F & C Factory No. 1) to do it! The result: brand new 5th Ave. Styles skinned on a background of public demand.
